CRIME PREVENTION TIP: WHAT NOT TO SHARE WITH AI

Key Information to Never Share with AI:

- Personally Identifiable Information (PII): Full names, home addresses, phone numbers, email addresses, or government ID numbers (e.g., driver's license).
- Financial Details: Bank account numbers, credit card details, and investment credentials.
- Confidential Business Data: Internal documents, unreleased strategies, intellectual property, or client lists.
- Passwords and Credentials: Any login information for systems, apps, or devices.
- Sensitive Health/Medical Data: Specific diagnoses, medical histories, or prescriptions.
- Specific Locations/Bio-data: Sharing your precise, live location along with other identifying data can pose security risks

CRIME PREVENTION TIP: WHAT NOT TO SHARE WITH AI

Why You Should Be Careful

- Data Usage: Many public AI tools, such as ChatGPT, use input data to train their models, meaning information entered could reappear to other users.
- Security Vulnerabilities: Chatbots are not private, secure vaults, and data breaches or hacking could expose any shared information.
- No Confidentiality: Inputted information is not subject to standard confidentiality protections.

Rule of Thumb: If you wouldn't post it on a public forum, don't tell the AI
